Mikhail Antoshkin

Backend Python Software Engineer

Intorduction

Hello, my name is Mikhail, and I'm a backend python software engineer with background in infosec who also happens to be writing some Rust.

Experience

- 2019-08-14 - Present time. Russia, Ekaterinburg

  Backend Software Engineer at CyberLympha

  CyberLympha is an cybersecurity company with its own R&D and development departments, employing leading experts in the field. The main product of the company, CL DATAPK, povides comprehensive security monitoring and analysis. It is used by 100+ interprise customers with thousands of instalations

  Achivements/Tasks

  - In the begining was responsible for creating several MVPs, one of which grew into a full fleged product currently with its own dedicated development team
  - Refactoring of several modules to meet new requirements. In case of performance critical modules - with performance uplift around 10x
  - Involvment in architectural design of the project as a member of a core team
  - Creation of internal tooling for testing and automation
  - Mentoring of junior colleagues
  - Rust evangelism

Education

- 2015 - 2021 Ural Federal University

  Information Security of Telecommunication Systems (Specialist)

Skills

- Python (Aiohttp, Flask, FastAPI)
- Git
- Linux
- Docker
- Rust
- Postgres/MySQL

Languages

- English - Proficient
- Japanese - Basic
- Russian - Native speaker

Contact information

- mike.antoshkin@gmail.com
- github.com/mikhailantoshkin
- linkedin.com/in/mikhail-antoshkin
- t.me/mike_antoshkin